The aims

1.) To respectfully petition the British Crown and Government to honour the Zaccheus principle and REFUND HUT TAX like the British taxpayers recovered all of the £20.3 billion they injected into Lloyds Banking Group during the financial crisis. Likewise the African taxpayers must also recover their hut tax which was forcibly injected into the British South Africa Company during the colonial crisis. Hut tax was an oppressive and unjust taxation whose economic cost on the native peoples of Southern Africa (in particular Zambia, Zimbabwe then called Rhodesia) cost them at least £4,000,000,000.00 and reduced them and their descendants to extreme poverty. The Zaccheus principle is detailed in Luke 19 verse 8. The British Government has a financial and moral obligation to REFUND Hut Tax to the people of Africa.

2.) To make the hidden 19th-20th century financial documents (hereby called RhodesiaLeaks) freely available to the public for educational and historical purposes as it is the publishers hope that the history contained in the documents will be carefully studied and analysed in schools, universities and by the general public, particularly in Africa. The documents show the hidden financial history of economic exploitation in Zambia and Zimbabwe then called Rhodesia. The collection has been lawfully and legally acquired by the grace of GOD. No computer was hacked and no law was broken in the course of obtaining the historic financial documents. It is these documents that form the legitimate basis for the 4 billion pounds HUT TAX REFUND due to the people of Southern Africa.

FINANCIAL IMPACT OF HUT TAX

THE FACTS. THE NUMBERS. THE EVIDENCE.

*This Economic Cost Calculator is used to derive values in today's terms.

Financial year ended 31st March 1899

The British South Africa Company (B.S.A.C) collected £70,582.18 of hut tax in 1899, meaning at least 705 821 huts were under taxation. In today's terms, the economic cost of that £70,582.18 is £75,850,000.00. This hut tax made up 26% of the total Revenue extracted by the British South Africa Company in 1899.

Financial year ended 31st March 1900

The British South Africa Company (B.S.A.C) collected £73,938.12 of hut tax in 1900, meaning at least 739 381 huts were now under taxation. In today's terms, the economic cost of that £73,938.12 is £76,490,000.00. This hut tax made up 22,74% of the total Revenue extracted by the B.S.A.C in 1900.

Financial year ended 31st March 1901

The British South Africa Company (B.S.A.C) collected £75,340.09 of hut tax in 1901, meaning at least 753 400 huts were now under taxation. In today's terms, the economic cost of that £75,340.09 is £77,320,000.00. This hut tax made up 18,54% of the total Revenue extracted by the B.S.A.C in 1901. This was the year that Queen Victoria died on 22 January 1901. She was the monarch who issued the British South Africa Company ROYAL CHARTER.

Financial year ended 31st March 1902

The British South Africa Company (B.S.A.C) collected £91,571.19 of hut tax in 1902, meaning at least 915 711 huts were now under taxation. In today's terms, the economic cost of that £91,571.19 is £93,580,000.00. This hut tax made up 20,99% of the total Revenue extracted by the B.S.A.C in 1902. This was the year Cecil

Rhodes died on 26 March 1902. As the financial records show on page 11, B.S.A.C spend £4,000.00 on the funeral of Cecil Rhodes, the economic power of that amount being equivalent to £4,088,000.00 today. B.S.A.C also spend £2,800.00 on the Coronation of Edward VII, the economic power of that amount being equivalent to £2,861,000.00 today.

Financial year ended 31st March 1903

The British South Africa Company (B.S.A.C) collected £104,150.08 of hut tax in 1903, meaning at least 1 041 500 huts were now under taxation. In todays terms, the economic cost of that £104,150.08 is £108,000,000.00. This hut tax made up 20,92% of the total Revenue extracted by the B.S.A.C in 1903.

Financial year ended 31st March 1904

The British South Africa Company (B.S.A.C) collected £101,158.09 of hut tax in 1904, meaning at least 1 011 580 huts were now under taxation. In todays terms, the economic cost of that £101,158.09 is £104,700,000.00. This hut tax made up 23,27% of the total Revenue extracted by the B.S.A.C in 1903. Clearly some people were struggling to pay the hut tax evidenced by the slight drop in hut tax revenue compared to the financial year ended 31st March 1903.

Financial year ended 31st March 1905

The British South Africa Company (B.S.A.C) collected £171,624.06 of hut tax in 1905, meaning at least 1 716 240 huts were now under taxation. In todays terms, the economic cost of that £171,624.06 is £171,200,000.00. This hut tax made up 37,87% of the total Revenue extracted by the B.S.A.C in 1905. The jump in the hut tax revenue and also number of huts under taxation in this period suggest a sustained effort by the B.S.A.C to firmly collect as much hut tax as they could. Hut tax had taken its toll on the native people by this time.

Hon Philip Hammond MP-Chancellor of the Exchequer

Greetings.

This is a £4,000,000,000.00 Hut Tax Refund claim based on original B.S.A.C Financial statements in our archive and to be published on rhodesialeaks.com. The African people were forced to pay HUT TAX in cash, labour or livestock. Hut Tax reduced the native people and their offspring to extreme poverty. Therefore the British Crown and Government has a moral and financial obligation to REFUND THE HUT TAX.

Attached is the HM REVENUE and Customs Tax Claim form and correspondence to Number 10, The Cabinet and Attorney General. The case is also detailed on our website Rhodesia Leaks

We also have original stock certificates and financial reports concerning the matter and would be most happy to send certified copies to you.

We look forward to hearing from you.

This is a £4,000,000,000.00 Hut Tax Refund claim based on original B.S.A.C Financial statements in our archive and published on rhodesialeaks.com. The African people were forced to pay HUT TAX in cash, labour or livestock. Hut Tax reduced the native people and their offspring to extreme poverty. Therefore the British Crown and Government has a moral and financial obligation to REFUND THE HUT TAX.
